SPEAK NOW OR FOREVER---

The Selectmen's committee appointed to study zoning has been meeting regularly on Tuesday nights at the Mattapoisett Town Hall. They have gone into the proposal in depth and are still in the process of reaching conclusions which can be translated into solid proposals. In order to satisfy the majority of Mattapoisett's citizens, they urge that the public write expressing points of view. These written opinions would then be used as reference material and would have a very definite influence on the final set of proposals.

Mr. Earl, chairman of the committee, stated that these expressions of opinion would be very valuable to the committee which seeks to work out a fair set of zoning laws designed to protect the town and, at the same time, reasonable and acceptable to the great majority of our citizens. The committee has a wide representation of local members and they desire to have the widest possible judgment of the needs of the community, and they would like it in written form for a permanent record for the use of the committee.

A letter setting forth your views will be welcomed by them and will receive every consideration. Since this matter is the most important single step ever undertaken by the town, it is hoped that many letters will be received.

The Tuesday night meetings are open to the public who are welcome to observe the committee meetings.

ATTENDED VOLPE DINNER IN BOSTON

Mrs. Edna L. Borden of Marion and Mrs. Ada B. Cowing of Wareham attended a dinner which honored His Excellency John A. Volpe, Governor of the Commonwealth.

It was held at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel which is in the Prudential Center. The Grand Ballroom was crowded to capacity, and many adjoining rooms were used to accomodate the 2300 who attended. The main speaker was former Congressman Robert A. Taft, Jr., son of "Mr. Republican," the late Senator from Ohio. The speaker resembles his father, but Mrs. Borden considered his oratory a little more fluent.

Mrs. Borden was Congressman Donald W. Nicholson's (Billy Nick to you) home office secretary for several years, and when Mr. Taft delivered a ringing denunciation of what he termed "Government domination by the Executive Branch," she whispered to Mrs. Cowing, "Eighteen years ago Billy Nick was saying that, and predicting loss of Home Rule by the States and Municipalities. How right he was!"

Mr. Taft commented, "The widely ballyhooed Anti-Poverty Program has entirely bypassed and weakened community and State health and welfare services, instead of using and assisting existing organizations and channels." He termed the present U. S. Senate and Congress a "Puppet Congress," and said in the field of medical care, "alternative plans using private insurance and State administration, or both, were brushed aside for a program with central direction, collection, and control."

Mr. Taft considered the Aid-to-Education Bill as a "step to interjecting control of any school districts that accepted help."

When Governor Volpe entered the ballroom, the orchestra played "Hail To The Chief", which was followed by The National Anthem, and prayers by Right Reverend John M. Burgess, Suffragan Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, and by the Right Reverend Jeremiah F. Minnihan, Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Boston. There was a moment of silence in memory of the Governor's mother, who passed away recently. The benediction was given by Dr. Israel J. Kazid, Rabbi Temple Mishkan Tafila.

Part of the Governor's concluding remarks was "The steadfast support all of you have show for good government will always be my greatest reward." He was presented a scroll by Mrs. Harper Clifford and Jerry O'Leary, of the Dinner Committee.

One of the men who helped push the affair to be such a success was Richard Robie, one of the big Barry Goldwater supporters at the G.O.P. National Convention in San Francisco last year.
